We don't know but that the change would be good, as the young, rising generation who are soon to control the satinies of Kansas know no merit in the term "Jayhawker," except that it seems to have been applied to those who did some lively foraging upon the enemy in Missouri and Arkansas. On the other hand, the sunflower army is one of the bulwarks of Kansas' renown; for does it not tell to the world that our soil is the rich, black loam which takes the premium over all other and that it is in such a soil. er soils, and that it is in such a soil only that the festive sunflower flourishes vigorously. brought out from Salina, last week, five hundred, and a number of other persons have and are getting smaller lots. Hence there is likely to be, what there has not been, some interest taken in the wool market. This is a new departure in agricultural interests, and we trust and believe, that if well looked after it will prove successful.

find the aforesaid John D.

What Governor St. John expects to do politically, or not to do—is what is putting the statesmen of Kansas to considerable worry. It was first rumored that he would be a candidate for re-election to the Governorship, and following quickly on the heels of this rumor was another one that he had given up all intention of being a candidate for Governor, but that he would make a strong fight for Senator Plumb's place. Lately, whenever a Legislator has been nominated to succeed some one else who has resigned after it will prove successful.

For a week or more we gased wistfully at the convocation of clouds that hung over us and held together, most of the time, but gave us no rain except a mere sprinkle or mist. At length we were all delighted (albeit from the we were all delighted (albeit from the had not their wheat threshed, or others had hay unstacked) on Thursday night with a gentle, but protracted rain, and it has been repeated every night since. The soil is thus well-packed, making a good bed for the winter wheat, thereby almost insuring it against being winter killed.

The schools around are in progress and literary societies are organizing for the winter months.

A leading question among many of ceed some one else who has resigned or been promoted, it has gone abroad that he was either a "Plumb man" or "St. John man." What the statesmen would like to know is whether or not St. John is actually in the race for Senator. If he is, they all say, he will make a strong pull for Plumb's place. Brother Griffin, of the Manhattan Nationalist-one of the leaders of the temperance men in this State, says that if Plumb is a candidate for re-election, he must declare himself on the all important question of temperance. Is this a bugle blast of defiance from the temperance party of the State, which announces that the temperance issue is to be fought over

If so, it is altogether probable that St. John will be their candidate and the race will be most exciting. THE most "fastidious" have no rea son to object to President Arthur's course thus far in making appoint ments. The nominations sent in by President Garfield have so far been endorsed by him. He seems, also, to be following the course which was expected of him by the country with reference to the cabinet positions. Blaine, Windom, Kirkwood, Hunt and McVeagh will retire of their own accord. There is no disposition on the part of the President to "push them out." It is possible that James will remain, while the retention of Lincoln is almost absolutely certain. If Arthur sees fit to invite Conkling to enter his Cabinet, it will be only a proper recognition of the services of one of the ablest leaders and workers in the Republican party, and there will be no great National discontent over the event. It is not demonstrated that the Grant-Conkling element pro pose to bulldoze Arthur and be the "power behind the throne," nor has anything else occurred which leads people to suspect that such will be the case. Or the other hand every act of the new President thus far suggests the observation that he is the President of the United States in fact, as well as in name. Blaine announces that he retires from the Cabinet from choice, that he may take hold of some good business projects that he has in view. It is also strongly intimated that he is urged to his retiracy from the fact that he proposes to become a candidate for the Presidency in 1884, are, at the present time. and that as a Cabinet officer for a prob-THE remarkable event in the life of able candidate for the same place, he cannot honestly and fairly work up his chances.
